Terms and Conditions

Each time credit card information is submitted, an authorization request is sent to your credit card company. Your credit card company verifies that the card number is valid and that the amount of your transaction is available. If the card number is valid and the funds are available, the credit card company puts an authorization hold on the funds. Even if you receive an invalid CIC or CVV error message, the credit card company or bank will still apply an authorization hold on the funds and immediately deduct those funds. Please note this DOES affect your available credit limit or account balance. It is strongly recommended for debit/bank card users to use a credit card so as not to affect their checking account balance.

It is best to avoid the inconvenience of the pending or duplicate charge by double-checking the CIC code before submitting the payment. An authorization is only a hold on the funds for a possible future transfer. This hold is temporary, and if the transaction is not settled it will expire without any action, usually within 7 days. It is not a completed transaction and no funds are transferred at that time. Your credit card company may still show a temporary authorization hold on the funds after your transaction is completed. It can take several working days for them to process the void on the transaction. The time will vary amongst companies. Unfortunately, many customer service staff at banks or credit card companies are not aware of the difference between an authorization hold and a settled transaction. They will tell you that it is a valid transaction even though we have processed a void on the authorization. Credit card companies process authorizations and charges immediately; however they may take up to 7 days to process voids or credits.
